“FOR THE ACT AND ART OF DOCUMENTATION TO BE TRULY PURPOSEFUL IT NEEDS TO DEEPEN AND EXTEND THE LEARNING”

There are nine steps in the post-documentation phase:

1. Unpack
2. Filter
3. Organize
4. Reflect
5. Connect
6. Edit
7. Create
8. Share
9. Amplify

AMPLIFYFY

“When learners share their documentation with a wider public audience through amplification, they invite new and previously untapped possibilities to extend the learning both as a contributor and as a seeker of new or deeper knowledge and understanding. As mentioned previously, amplification connects beyond the limitations of a zip code or language barrier. It involves taking advantage of belonging to a global learning network (or knowing someone who does) to access experts who can provide new perspectives or new information.”

TAKING OUR PLP WORK AS AN EXAMPLE, HOW DEEP INTO THE POST-DOCUMENTATION PHASE DO WE GET, AND WHAT DOES THAT MEAN FOR OUR OWN LEARNING?

CONSIDERING ALL FIVE PILLARS, WHERE AND WHEN IS THERE AN OPPORTUNITY TO BETTER AMPLIFY OUR LEARNING?

WHAT ONE PERSONAL LEARNING EXPERIENCE OF YOURS HAS BEST MIRRORED THE HEADLINE?
